UKCA requirements for LAPP products

Dear customers,

Lapp would like to inform you about the status of UKCA marking of Lapp products.

LAPP has been monitoring the legal situation in the UK regarding the product conformity and marking directives and has started early to comply with the corresponding obligations. In the meantime, the situation in the UK has changed to the extent that the CE marking will still be accepted indefinitely.

Therefore, we took the following decision:

After some years of implementing the UKCA marking on Lapp products, we are going to remove the UKCA marking from the product's labels.

There are four main reasons for removing the UKCA mark from current products:

1. it is simply not required by the UK government and there is no indication that it will be required any time soon
2. our subsidiary LAPP UK confirmed that the UK market is accepting the CE mark without any issues
3. in case the UK government decides to require UKCA marking, it is not clear today whether the requirements (legislation, standards) for marking the products will be the same as of today so whether today's UKCA mark can then also be applied
4. Time savings: with removing the UKCA mark we will also not need to fulfil the requirements of documentation, which means we do not need to update the UK Declaration of conformity in case UK designated standards change

Yours sincerely,

U.I. Lapp GmbH Product Development
